Description of the university group, its tasks & interests

Provisions for university groups:

A university group may, with regard to its areas of responsibility, only be a supplement to the organs of the student body enshrined in the University Act and may not take over any tasks of the existing student self-administration. A university group must pursue a social, cultural or charitable interest in the interest of all students of the student body and is in principle open to all members of the student body. University groups are not authorized to sign and regulate their own internal affairs in accordance with their statutes. University groups are not allowed to pay membership fees and are obliged to keep a cash book of their income and expenses. At the request of the AStA chair, the AStA finance department or the StuPas, the AStA finance department and the finance committee must be given an account. In the course of applying for financial means from the student budget, the cash book must be disclosed retroactively up to the last audit. Purchases made by university groups are the property of the student body. University groups are therefore required to keep an inventory of purchases. In the event of the dissolution of a university group, the finances, cash book and all purchases must be handed over to the student parliament. If one of the rules for university groups laid down in the statutes is not observed, the StuPa can revoke the registration of the university group.
